

Solar initiation by Bernard de Montreal (C-043 translated from French) <http://diffusion-bdm-intl.com>

Solar initiation, that is, the opening of contact between man and extraordinary intelligences, constitutes the ultimate psychological test of the earth, for this test points towards the elevation of human intelligence above all that man has believed he understood since the beginning of his evolution. Solar initiation can only be lived in relation to the extraordinary intelligence that animates each individual and that constitutes the most absolute of man's psychological experiences, because it cannot be generated by him or these spiritual methods, but by the ray in him, which works under the cover of his subjective thought.

Solar initiation is the new condition of man, the starting point towards a psychological unknown that is absolutely distinct from the psychological content that expresses the totality of his experimental consciousness. This psychological unknown is the product of the continuous rapprochement of the ray of intelligence that penetrates the mind of man and the inversion of a new power on the globe, that of being able to know. But man does not know the power of knowledge, does not know its aspects and dominating aspects, so that his learning becomes more and more an unveiling in his mind.

Solar initiation protects the mind of man, but destroys the curiosity of his intellect, in order to increase in him the vibration of the mind, that is, of that consciousness in him which manages, according to the mode of his expression, to dominate everything that concerns him closely, that is, what he becomes aware of. The purpose of solar initiation is to generate enough vibratory energy on the earth's globe to increase the vibratory rate of planetary consciousness, so that man can come into contact with his brothers in space. But solar initiation does not commit any man to immortality unless he can experience all its aspects, all its power of penetration and transformation. The man of tomorrow will experience two major possibilities on earth, either to eventually move on to the circle of Tibetan initiates or to move beyond it, in order to form a new one that will become the new centre of energy and service for future humanity.

The conditions of one passage or another depend on several life factors that can only be highlighted by the evolutionary paths followed by each. But the universal nature of solar initiation is part of the experience of the two passages. Solar initiation is a process of vibratory change that alters the very substance of man's subtle bodies. Once the substance of the body has been altered, man can no longer live his material life according to the canon of past experiences and this new state predisposes him to live the passage of a radiant energy at the end of the cycle, which will land his total consciousness so that he will be sucked into a field of force, opening the doors of parallel worlds to him, so that his present life will be more and more lived according to this in a more or less near future. The fundamental key to life granted by solar initiation is a masterpiece of pure intelligence, for it is based on the close relationship between cosmic and human thought, so that a bridge can be gradually built between man and the extraordinary intelligences that cap human experience. This key cannot be lost, when it is perceived, but its development depends on each being, each man who is aware of it. But the future of the solar man is suitable for all men of high inner intelligence. This is why planetary man, when receiving this key, gradually becomes a marginal being, because the vibration of the key predisposes him more and more to live according to this vibration.

And it is the development of this vibration that will allow man to join one or the other of the two great science centres of humanity, one located in the Himalayas and the other in the great depths of the Atlantic. The presence on earth of snowmen (abominable) and dolphins is a profound condition of the links between Himalayan and Atlantic ether. Snowman (abominable) protects the etheric space of the Himalayas and the dolphin will protect the Atlantic lands. These intelligent but primitive beings have been protected for very long periods of evolution, in order to serve in the near future those who will have to penetrate these ethers. Snowman (abominable) is already at the service of man in the Himalayas and the dolphin will fulfil its function when man begins to penetrate the Atlantic ether.

As in the case of the snowman (abominable), the dolphin will be under the surveillance of the Atlantic men. The intervention in human affairs of these primitive Atlantic beings will be beneficial, because the friendship of the new initiates will be manifest under the cover of their presence, while in the Himalayas it is only the hidden presence of the initiates that manifests itself. We bring these unusual details in order to make the new man recognize the need to free himself from the conceptions he may have of the possible, in order to open his mind to the nature of reality which does not always suit the canon of the law of the material plane.

Solar initiation undertakes in man to destroy all notion of the material plane, in order to gradually introduce it at the point of encounter between pure intelligence and the intelligence of the senses. The intelligence of the senses is a primitive intelligence, because it predisposes man to what he sees and not to what is real behind the veil of the senses. The laws of life are not dictated by the senses, nor compressed by reason, but dictated by extraordinary intelligence and confirmed in man's extrasensory experience. While solar initiation generates intelligence in man, this same intelligence can never be perceived by man's lower mind, for his very nature rejects that which disturbs the balance between thought and senses. And it is precisely the imbalance between the senses and subjective thought that constitutes the exhausting experience of the new man. While the extraordinary intelligence in him works to penetrate the thick layers of the lower mind, the other dimensions of man come together to eventually form a whole with the physical body, which naturally allows man to penetrate the ether of his choice.

Solar initiation is suitable for the one who is already engaged in his mind, in search of the other side of the mountain and it is only the vibration of this engagement that allows man to predispose himself to nature on the other side of the veil, to the nature of things beyond matter and the senses. The human being is a component of the life plan, which must be connected as a whole, in order to allow him to pass from one world to another, otherwise he is doomed to material death. Solar initiation is the beginning on earth of the representation of the different faces of man and this representation is so excessively in tune with the physical senses of man that the latter is obliged to fight during the initiation and those who can live this experience and discover a new balance will be counted among the initiates of the sixth race. Some will go to the Himalayan center, those who have had the strength to escape the psychological effect of their senses on their intelligence, others who have totally exceeded the power of their intelligence on extraordinary intelligence, will go to the Atlantic center, seat of science and invisible earth government. The last group will represent the highest human hierarchy on earth and these beings will be the bridge between man and the men of space. The first group will continue to evolve and spiritually help humanity. The profound difference between the Himalayan ether and the Atlantic ether is based on the relationship between human intelligence and extraordinary intelligence. Not all men can experience solar initiation according to the laws of extraordinary intelligence, because a particular link with this intelligence can only be developed through certain life experiences that are already part of each person's life plan.

This is why the greatest number of those who experience solar initiation will be sucked into the Capricorn tunnel or corridor. The passage of the solar man through the Capricorn corridor will teach him in the science of errors, so that in the future they can recognize the differences between error and extraordinary intelligence.

Not all solar men will have the discernment, which is essential, to penetrate the Atlantic ether. That is why they will have to be sucked into the Himalayan ether. This consideration is of major importance and that is why the new man, although assured of passing from one plane to another, cannot be assured of passing from the centre of knowledge, i. e. the Himalayan centre, to the centre of science, i. e. the Atlantic centre. The importance of solar initiation cannot be disputed, since these two centres of future earthly life can only be inhabited by those who have exceeded a lower level of consciousness and who can undergo an increase in their vibratory rate, according to the mode of reception they are assigned to them by their more or less close connection with the extraordinary intelligence that can manifest itself through one centre or another of energy.

Apart from the extraordinary intelligence in man is the activity of the ray assigned to each man and already recorded in the fluid intelligence of the cosmic centers of the planet. It is this link with the fluid intelligence of the earth's occult centers that will allow the new man to be sucked into the Capricorn corridor, for those who will go to the Himalayan ether and in another corridor for the others. The fluid intelligence of these centers is sufficiently present and powerful on earth to reveal itself to the new man from time to time, to make him realize that he does not belong to the physical planetary race, but to the invisible planetary race. And this realization is always done according to the reception centre open to this energy. Whatever the reception centre, it can change according to the evolution of the solar man, that is, according to his greater or lesser proximity to the extraordinary intelligence.

It is normal for some to perceive the intelligence fluid of the Himalayan first, and then lose consciousness in order to later present the Atlantic intelligence fluid. This change then causes an internal crisis of sufficient magnitude for man to suffer from identity. This suffering of identity can be acute and depressing, because the rejection of the astral body is accentuated, to the point of interest of total loss of living in matter, without wishing death in itself, but the calm it brings. But this calm must be lived on the material level, otherwise it is the product of astral consciousness, that is, of emotion and not of extraordinary intelligence. The new man is attached to the Atlantic centre, must be able to live the calm of the extraordinary intelligence, while he is still in the matter, otherwise he predisposes himself to the astral influence that radiates from the Himalayan centre and calls towards him those who are great in the heart but weak in the extraordinary intelligence. Solar initiation is the passage from the plane of human consciousness to the superhuman consciousness of the planetary ether. And the order of its evolution coincides with the gradual rejection of the veils that make up the experimental consciousness and which prevents man from having access to the different planes of light that constitute the scaffolding of the parallel worlds, the invisible worlds.

Only the extraordinary intelligence of man can destroy these veils, because it alone possesses the vibration of the ray, to which every human being is assigned. The vibration of the ray being indeed the energy of the extraordinary intelligence and is sufficient for the man who is conscious to become more and more conscious of it, to escape more and more from the grip of his senses on his intelligence. This hold is much more powerful than man can imagine and that is why everything that comes to him at the beginning of extraordinary intelligence seems to him to be unbelievable or the rigging of certain minds. But this is not so, for extraordinary intelligence can only manifest itself when man is ready and able to receive it. While man may be prey to unhealthy spirits, he cannot be prey to extraordinary intelligence, for it does not come to him unless he is ready to receive it.

Solar initiation increases man's ability to receive this intelligence and that is why every man who is the beneficiary of it gradually advances towards one of the life centres of the planet. Those who institute solar initiation on earth, those who present it to man in one form or another, cannot give it to man, for it manifests itself according to the ray in him and cannot be related to any form of teaching or other.

Solar initiation is a path where all man's paths lead, whatever their point of origin, recognizes it because it leads them further towards real intelligence, outside man's spiritual limits. Whatever the starting point, it closely follows the entire evolution of humanity. Where men have lived in groups, the salutary effects of spiritual consciousness, they will live alone the solar initiation, without the external support of a teaching. Whatever the level of man's spiritual or philosophical experience, he will be left behind in the dust of human memory. When the ray carrying the extraordinary intelligence, will enter the mind of man in order to install the foundation of the cosmic being, which cannot be hindered by psychology or philosophy or human spirituality. The solar initiation as it must be experienced by the man of the 20th century, is the product of the connection with what is only understood by or according to the extraordinary intelligence. No man can resist it if it presents itself and no man can take it by mere desire. It is a vibratory phenomenon whose origin remains hidden from mortals until it is within the enclosure of the light of the earth.

If man can coexist for a long period of life, without realizing the light of the earth, it is because the ray in him has not reached the very centre of his intelligence, which has the effect of maintaining the supremacy of the senses over his mind. But as soon as this ray penetrates, man's eyes open and the spirit begins to grow, until the day when the life forces that hold power can show him the way to the great depths, where the gods are established.

These men who are no longer in command, but who command, because they have in them the power of the light that must serve them, so that they can watch over the evolution of the globe and the harmony of these different forms of life. The exclusion of man from solar initiation is not a choice, but a pre-established condition of life on another level of evaluation, it must be understood that all men are attached to any planet and that some have not yet evolved sufficiently to benefit fully from it. Only when they have spent enough time on their respective planets can they become part of the immortals of the earth. Opportunity is not the point, opportunity is the product of an evolutionary plan already established before birth, so that man can know his destiny. Whatever the ultimate relationship between the material man and the immortal, the destiny of one is only the inevitability of the other and every man who goes to the other already knows that he is different and that he must not die. The mystery of the solar initiation is similar to the reality of the atom. Outside the atom is not only an energy particle, but it is also a vast field of light. Man does not know the light field of the atom. But only the force released from the center. Outside the energy field of the atom comes from the perfection in time of the ray or from the extraordinary intelligence, so that, a man who is in the process of initiation, is in the process of penetrating into the field of light of the atom and it is this field of light that constitutes the corridor that brings him to the center of knowledge or cosmic science.

Outside the atom in man, is a point in him that perfectly coincides in vibration with the ray and there, where the ray enters through this point, there is vibration of a certain order, so that man passes from one plane to another, without having to live the destruction of his material body. The contact between the ray and the atom in man creates in man a gaze, a vision and it is this gaze, this vision that allows him from now on to live on another scale of evolution, because nothing can oppose it more, neither the dense matter, nor the astral. The atom of man is made up of seven layers of energy, connected in centres of emanations, through which the ray of extraordinary intelligence passes. And this atom is seven times more powerful than each energy center in man, so that man's total being is a multiple of seven, which is why the spiritual man's effort to vibrate one of the centers, one of the seven centers, is an unlimited temporary effort, because the real man is seven times more powerful than the activity of an energy center and any spiritual activity aimed at lighting one of these centers, is only the reflection of man seeking to become what is already seven times greater than what he can't seek to do spiritually.

Besides the powers of man must be liberated by the ray and not attracted by his body of desire. What man calls God is not discoverable by the activity of one of the seven centres, but by the activity of the seven centres under the power and control of the ray of creation. The greatness of man is veiled even to the one who makes one of these centers vibrate, because the real man, the cosmic man, is the result of the fusion of the ray with the seven centers. Man will one day discover that these seven centers correspond to the seven layers of what he calls the soul and that these seven layers must be energetically integrated into these principles, so that this energy can serve him when he is free in spirit, that is, master of life.

When man has experienced the solar initiation, he will discover that what he calls God is in fact a multiple of seven of what he is and that this multiple to other multiples, so that seven times this multiple increases the vibration in him, and so on. And that the more a being can live from the multiple of seven, the closer he gets to the absolute, that is, the science of intelligence, and that when he gets closer to this science he discovers other aspects that bring him even closer to it, which leads him more and more towards the absolute of absolutes. And this is how man advances in the light and advances in the perfection of the worlds of light. There is no end, the real man is endless. And the spirit of man is the most real aspect of himself, so that man is consciousness, whose multiple is vibratory, that is, energetic, and it is energy that is the manifestation of intelligence and it is intelligence that is the beauty of what man calls God. For in beauty, man discovers love, because love is the essence of perfection. And when man knows intelligence and love, because he is perfecting himself, the will comes down to earth, because the energy is committed to correcting the experience so that the experience becomes more and more perfect, so that man lives and evolves towards perfection. Solar initiation is the gift of intelligence to man, it raises him from the dust of unconscious experience, but its price is great, for man is great and all that is great must be made perfect, otherwise he must die, that is to say he must wait in a way where life is only the long memory of past experience, lived unceasingly until the dead being knows the real life, that of the ray that animates all planes, even the matter.

Solar initiation cannot be experienced by all men of the same era, because it already reflects an evolution that has long been engaged by the being who must one day on this earth know what has always been veiled to man. This initiation serves as a springboard, so that man can ensure the continuity of consciousness, which here should be called the consciousness of appearances. Out of appearances are the empty forms that circulate in the time of the spirit of the earth and that have been deposited by man's brothers who live in the coffin of his solar system. Outside these forms must one day be used by man on earth, but they can only be used by him when the ray of creation, that is, the ray of ceremonial magic, has penetrated human consciousness and has separated man's bodies, without unscrewing them. Then those who have experienced solar initiation will have the power to recognize these luminous forms and merge with them, thus establishing for the first time on earth, the great circle of the Atlantic. This circle will be more powerful than anything that constitutes power on earth, which is why it will no longer have the possibility of war, for a certain period of time because the sons of light will have ascended. As long as the solar initiation is given to man, the rate of consciousness will increase on the globe and when this initiation ceases, the earth will once again be in a battle, between light and its opposite.

The solar initiation cannot be stopped on earth, as long as it has men marked to receive it. This initiation will mark the intervention in the history of humanity, of cosmic forces and its influence will be incalculable because the ego or the man who will be touched by it will be totally transformed according to its vibratory relationship with the energy that it will penetrate into it as it advances into the intelligence of reality. The laws of matter must be perfectly known to man, so that his spirit may be freed from them, so that he can travel through time and discover the high places of the governments that lead evolution and intervene in silence in the evolution of all forms of life.

Man must participate in the creative activities of these governments and fully understand the mechanisms that order the evolution of his system, otherwise he is doomed to ignorance and loss, for his intelligence cannot continue to develop without the internal support of a larger backdrop to which he belongs without realizing it. Solar initiation will destroy any form of symbolism, which in the past has served the spiritual or philosophical evolution of man, in order to imprint on his spirit the vibration of pure intelligence and this vibration will be so powerful that man will no longer be able to think about what he knows, but he can only channel what he knows. Free of his subjective thought he will have access to the mystery of life and his life will be totally transformed by it. The ether will open to him and death will no longer be the shadow of his life.

Solar initiation will coincide with a chain of events, which will make life more and more painful on the globe, as cosmic forces will disturb the balance of humanity, in order to force man to recognize existence beyond the matter of intelligence that watches over its evolution and with which he must collaborate, in order to establish a new order of life on earth. It is obvious that man cannot see without undergoing an enlargement of his mind and it is only through the manifest power of cosmic forces that he can achieve certain things. Ignorance can only be overcome by the shock of events beyond its control. The solar initiation will coincide with the death and resurrection of the earth, under unimaginable conditions, those who will have the vision of things, will easily live through these conditions, but humanity at large, will be struck at the center of the heart and its intelligence upset.

The balance of the earth will be turned against man, so that even death cannot relieve him. For life continues after death, but in a world that will be troubled by the coming to earth of beings unrelated to death. And those who will be in death will see for the first time since the beginning of their stay on the other side of the wall, that the new life on earth is a paradise that they can only know through incarnation and that this incarnation will be limited to the evolved level. The others will have to evolve on other levels in order to no longer delay the evolution of the earth. Even the dead will be prisoners of their condition, for the earth will be managed by the forces of light and man will know the mysteries that have veiled his spirit in the past.

Solar initiation cannot be controlled, but it comes to earth. And man only receives it to the extent that his mind opens up to it. Man's planetary consciousness must no longer tremble before the light, for light is life and the cause of life. Today's man stands on his knees before the symbol of light, but tomorrow his mind will be so great that he will walk straight ahead of himself and enter a parallel world that the initiates have nicknamed, the paradise of the earth. The spirit of the man who opens or suffers from the initiation must be strong and robust, because this initiation is that of the transformation of his bodies and the penetration behind the veil of matter. It is no longer a question of man being disturbed in his mind but of living with his mind and being able to undergo without fear the light of the intelligence that enters him every day and prepares him for full consciousness, the material and supra-sensitive world. Man's thought can only become powerful when it is perfect and it is only when he knows how to rid himself of all these prejudices that he can have access to his real intelligence, the essential key to all real life.

The solar initiation leads to the other side of the mountain, it reveals what is not known in the world of reason, it gradually leads man to the infinity of his spirit. It works unceasingly, day after day and uses all the material of unconscious and imperfect life, to build, strengthens, the principles of man so that he can undergo the shock of the passage in the ether. The more power the Atlantic centre grows in power, the more power the solar initiation increases and the more its power is spread over the globe. If man can fake material senses by using certain techniques, such as cinema, prestidigitation, astral magic, imagine what the light and intelligence of this light, which holds power over everything that moves from atom to man, to the galaxy, can do. Is it natural that today's man should be so proud in his intelligence? The answer is positive, but life never proves man right, because life is greater than man and larger than his intelligence. This is why solar initiation is the great cry of life on earth of the 20th century.

Solar initiation will translate for man all the domains of his experience into reality, he will be able to understand everything of his life, instead of living inside a dream, he will see his life unfold in a way consistent with his intelligence and not according to external factors that are and have always been beyond his control.

Life, in other words, will no longer escape him, for he will grow according to his own laws and not according to egocentric conceptions that push man in all possible and unimaginable directions, without him being able to understand its purpose instantly. Man will no longer be affected by life's events, he will watch them as he watches a film, that is, objectively and will feel totally outside its unfolding. The new life that grows when man lives the solar initiation, is more and more real, according to the degree of will and intelligence that believes in him. Not all men have the same capacity to live, to vibrate from the ray in them, from their intelligence and will.

But whatever the degree of the relationship with the ray, man becomes perfectly conscious of it, so that his consciousness of the ray allows him to live his life objectively, that is, without being subjectively involved in it, in the lower mind or emotional. He can then leave his material body at will, because his intelligence and emotional power no longer have the power to prevent the material senses from interfering with another dimension of life, which we can call supramental life. The mutation of the new man will coincide with the greatest crisis that man has ever known, that of his contact with the beings of space, who have already conquered matter and perfectly understand the laws of life. These beings whose presence on earth will create the great shock to man's planetary consciousness will mark man's first cosmic experience. And humanity after this experience will never again be what it was, that is, confused in its mind. Solar initiation is the great cry of new life on earth and man is the carrier of it and he will carry the light within him, for he is light and everything that obstructs this light within him will be destroyed.
